A journey of hope...

Going through infertility treatment is not easy. Couple goes through a lot of emotional, physical and financial stress. Ever since a girl is born they are told that one day they will become a mother. We as women are born with this mindset that it is our birth right to become a mother one day. But as we grow up and learn that this cannot happen naturally we are broken into pieces. We cannot accept the fact that being a lady we cannot bear a child.

In today's scenario where things are changing the mindset of the people are also changing. IVF is a journey from darkness to light. If we take it as a burden then it's a difficult one but if we embrace it with love then we can sail through the storm. We need to make choices. The journey is difficult but not impossible. We need to make choices. Prioritise what is important in life. Nothing comes with guarantee but if we are determined then nobody can stop us. We need to give our 100% to the treatment. There is always a choice that we need to make. Never give up hope.

PASSION AND PROFESSION

Often it is seen that people are working hard but they lack inner happiness. It seems as if we are in search of peace and contentment, but alas, all the materialistic things that give momentary pleasure, fails to bring that joy into our lives. Professionally even though we get the satisfaction of Salary Credited to our accounts every month, but is that enough? A lot of times, the answer is NO. It is mostly because everyone has their own different sets of goals, dreams & passion, which, most of the times, doesn't match with the profession they choose for themselves. Passion is something which gives a sense of satisfaction when we do it. It is doing what we like, without the money factor involved. Profession is services that we do for money. Passion can be our profession but profession may not/need not be our passion always. Passion and career coincide for only a few people. If we really find a way out to establish our passion in our work or the job we do, we would be the happiest working person. If one is able to strike a balance between his/her profession and passion together, there would be nothing like it. And in the scenario where one doesn't have any passion (bit unusual) it's important to try to find the passion in his/her job. Passion may be achieved after waiting for long, but once we start following our passion along with our professional lives, the contentment and happiness will surely be reflected on our faces. Hence it is very important to keep working hard, yet, keeping the spirit of following our passion alive within us forever.

An Innocent Soul

Begin from the drops of blood: I am developing day by day.

Swimming in the pool, inside your womb:

Waiting for the time to get outside.

With that excitement

For being a symbol, a symbol of togetherness,

A symbol of love.

O' Mother! What am I hearing?

O' Mother! What you are doing?

I want to get out, but not like this,

I want to feel the light, the sunshine of your smile,

I want to receive the love, the love of a mother.

Feeling your heart, beating next to me:

You have a lot of love to give to me.

No please no, don't kill me: it will hurt, yes it hurts

O' Mother! Please save me.
